

CURIOUS about who's hiring me to talk about Handwriting Analysis??

CHECK out my SCHEDULE!!!

December 2008: Orlando, Florida

ASHP (American Society of Health-System Pharmacists) Annual Convention
(Analyses / 18,000 participants from all over the world)

January 2009: Champaign-Urbana, IL

NIRSA (National Intramural & Recreational Sports Association) Region III
Student Lead-On (Analyses / 300 participants)

February 2009: Terre Haute, IN

NARFE (Featured Speaker / National Active & Retired Federal Employees)

March 2009: Chicago, IL

AORN (Association of peri-Operative Registered Nurses) Annual Convention
(Analyses / 6,000 participants from all over the world)

April 2009: Richmond, IN

USA Martial Arts Hall of Fame Tournament/Banquet (Analyses/500 participants)

April 2009: Terre Haute, IN

Westminster Village Retirement Community (Featured Speaker)

July 2009: Terre Haute, IN

Ivy Tech Community College: Handwriting Analysis 101 Class

July 2009: Terre Haute, IN

Indiana State University Support Staff Council Retreat (Opening Speaker)

September 2009: Terre Haute, IN

Indiana State University: Handwriting Analysis 101 Class

September 2009: Indianapolis, IN

Fundraising for Make-A-Wish Foundation at TGIFriday's!

November 2009: Terre Haute, IN

IRSA (Indiana Recreational Sports Association) Fall Conference

Workshop Presentation

Get the EDGE - - Using Handwriting Analysis to Improve Working Relationships & Hiring

It's been said that when selecting a job candidate, you should consider two issues only: capability (what the candidate can do) and personality (what the candidate is like). Of these two, personality is by far the more important. Statistically, over 87 percent of all people fail not because of capability, but because of personality. Wouldn't it give you a great edge in your interpersonal relationships and hiring methods, if you could know more about someone in the first 3 minutes after meeting them than you might find out all year? Handwriting analysis can give you that edge; it's a scientific method of seeing a person's "brain writing" and personality traits on paper. Learn how handwriting analysis can help you during this fun and practical workshop.

For scheduling contact:

Theresa Ortega / Professional Speaker & Handwriting Analyst

618 Wabash Avenue

Terre Haute, IN 47807

(812) 232-6555 / (812) 240-3256 cell

handwritingexpert@verizon.net